

Buildbot

It's a continuous integration tool that i want to integrate in our development environment, i have extended it for handling better multiple projects, automatically generating documentation, tests, and packaging. It's well advanced already, but i have no time these days for completing it.